My success

From student to a New Zealand stud! Lindsey Kanji

When I started at Myerscough I barely had any knowledge of working with horses but, due to the support, guidance and teaching at the College, I am now doing a dream job...in a dream location!

I initially started on the Level 1 in Horse Management before progressing on to a Level 3 qualification and finally completing a Foundation Degree in Equine Science.

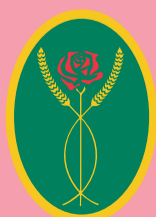

After leaving Myerscough, I worked for five years at Woodlander Stud, a dressage horse breeder in Worcester.

While there I got the opportunity to work with mares, foals, youngstock and stallions as well as complete an artificial insemination course which allowed me to inseminate mares on the stud.

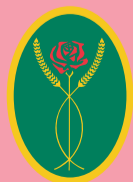

I eventually left Woodlander to move to New Zealand and take on a new adventure working with thoroughbreds for a company called Westbury Stud.

Here I was initially on the team that prepared yearlings for the National Yearling Sales event in Karaka, Auckland before working further in the breeding section of the farm.
